

Johnny said, "No!"
A poem by Alysa Madrigal

Chirp chirp chirp
The girls would flounce and flirt
With the boy they all love, the one they all dream of

He said no, he said no
To the girl in the bow
Did you hear, did you hear
It made her shed a tear

He lived across the river
The boy named johnny
He'd always come in the spring
And last spring he said no to connie

He makes us all sigh with his voice so soft and shy
I wish,
I wish he'd take me to the hayride
Take me many places
Go out dancing
Watch all their faces

Oh why can't he see,
I want to call him mine,
All i want is to be his wife and he'll kiss me a million times

I guess i was next to ask him how he felt
To marry me, and make me happy
When he says yes
It will break the girls hearts sadly

When i asked he looked not in my eyes
But down low, as a smiled and softly sighed

I'm not the first and i won't be the last of the girls in which he'd say

No.
